position labeled designator C it is possible for a large vessel to negotiate the turn.

6. Controls Vessel departed anchorage under pilot 151024G and, after dropping an anchor again inside harbor to permit turning, vessel reached berth labeled designator D at 151134G. A control party boarded vessel at her berth immediately after she completed mooring and vessel's radio, radar, sextant, guns and ammunition, cameras, binoculars, and flares were placed under seal. Grew members were mustered amidships under guard while searchers made a careful search of vessel.

| boarding officials thorough but more pleasant in their manner than those in the northern Chinese ports. The three Sea Frontier Defense Guards who had boarded vessel at anchorage on arrival remained on board vessel throughout her call and did not go ashore until vessel cleared harbor on departure. These guards were provided with a cabin and food while aboard vessel. One armed Chinese Army guard was posted at gangway on wharf at all times. No crew members were permitted ashore at subject port. Oreloading wharf area is surrounded by a fence patrolled by four roving guards. The only gate to the wharf area is also guarded.

8. Berth Vessel moored alongside ore-loading wharf at position labeled designator D. (See figure, sketch of berth.) This is the only berth associated with the ore-loading wharf, an earthen structure with a concrete facing. Bepth of water alongside was estimated by source at 30°. Ore is brought to vessel by a continuous-belt overhead conveyor and deposited into holds by one spout. Vessel commenced receiving 9395 long tons iron ore cargo 160708G, loading was halted 161830G, loading was resumed the following morning 170712G, and loading was completed 171810G. Cargo loading required 22 hours, 30 minutes, and was accomplished at a rate of $17$ long tons loaded per hour.

cargo as "high grade" ore. Vessel loaded no supplies, drinking water, or bunkers.

9. Construction A building is under construction at ore-loading wharf (See sketch of berth).

this building which adjoins a volleyball court will house a club when completed.

10. Naval Installation A naval installation is located at designator F.

ll. Coal-handling Facilities

Description of ore-handling facilities is reported in paragraph 8 above.
